Meandering

Very few people assemble at the Union Station nowadays to watch the trains come in, but in former years the arrival of trains nearly always drew quite a number who seemed to hang about aimlessly for the sole purpose of seeing the trains arrive and depart, and watch the people get on and off of them.

It was always more or less thrilling to watch the white coated waiters serving meals on the train, and to wonder where this person, that one and the other might be going.

In those days Al Nolan, Walter Clark and Elmer Lynch, with their horse-drawn cabs, met every train to haul passengers to the hotels, or wherever they were going.

It was a constant chorus of "Cherry Hotel! Arlington Hotel! Imperial Hotel! Cab! Cab! Cab!" as the passengers began to alight from the stuffy coaches.

Now, however, the novelty has worn off, and I guess more people have work to do at train time than they used to.

But I still get a thrill out of watching the trains come in and depart, but I get a bigger thrill out of departing on one of them and getting out into the world to see how the rest of the world lives.

All that ballyhoo by army recruiters about the opportunities offered by the country's armed forces is not just a lot of "come-on" stuff. Ask just a few of the many boys now coming back from service in any branch and many of them will admit they have learned some things that will help them in their peacetime pursuit of happiness and the business of making a living. Of course, during wartime their opportunities were offered the hard way and the boys in the service forces had a much better deal than those in combat.

Just for example — and I take this one because it is so far-fetched from what logically could be expected from the army in wartime:

Lieut. Frank Hutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Hutson, Sr., long has had an ambition to get into radio. He has just written to his mother from Frankfurt, Germany, that "the army doesn't realize it, but they are buying my future." He is in radio, thanks to the army, now — his ambition is realized unexpectedly and through an unforeseen chain of circumstances.

Opportunity knocked for him while he was deep in the dumps over not getting to come home. Remaining behind, he was given a new job and that "was the greatest thing that ever happened to me." The new job was as station manager of AFN, the army's Frankfurt station. Only in the army (with breaks) could such "wonderful promotions" come, he wrote.

His first show, he wrote, brought Jane Froman and Don Ross, who went to school here as a boy, to his office. They are over there entertaining American soldiers. When he introduced himself, he said Don asked about dozens of people back home and that they had a long talk about the old home town.

When he gets out of the army, he wrote his mother, he will not have to look for a job — he'll have one in radio where he's always wanted to be.

LAUSCHE SEEKS END FOR TIME MUDDLE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 23—(P)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche expressed hope today that congress would act promptly to eliminate "the great confusion" which he said had been caused by differences in time.

Three years ago congress established war time, advancing the time one hour in each zone. A year later the Ohio legislature established eastern standard time—an hour slower than that specified by congress—as the official time for the state.

During the summer months, however, most Ohio towns have operated on war time, while rural routes generally have adhered to standard time.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, these are courtroom shots of one of the ablest French journalists, Madeline Jacobs, of the Paris "Franc Tireur," as she "registered" fluctuating emotions at the trial of Marshal Pétain and held the attention of amused spectators with facial acrobatics. A Hollywood talent scout might have labeled her a "natural" as (1) She sizes up a witness; (2) Ho-Hum—dull stuff! (3) A sensation is promised; (4) So that's it—is it— (5) Laughing up her sleeve; (6) Too bad, Pétain was a great man—once! Look at him now!

LAND BOOM FEAR FOLLOWS PEACE

Demand for Food Leads to Advance in Values

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(P)—

Peace has revived concern among federal farm officials and agricultural leaders over the possibility of another postwar land boom. The one that followed World War I brought ruin to thousands of farm-buyers who went deeply into debt.

World War II, with its unprecedented demand for food, already has caused a sharp advance in land values. The Agriculture Department reports land prices average 57 percent higher than in the 1935-39 period and only 25 percent below the peak reached in 1920 after World War I.

Officials expect a sharply increased demand for farms from returning war veterans and workers laid off war jobs.

Since early in the war, proposals have been advanced to prevent an undue rise in farm prices, but no action has been taken. Former secretary of agriculture Wickard urged enactment of a capital gains tax designed to prevent speculative buying and selling of land.

The belief is generally held that agricultural prosperity has reached its peak.

A receding demand for farm products could be expected to bring lower farm commodity prices and a reduced farm income. Farm buyers who went directly into debt to buy land at present or future inflated values might have great difficulty paying off mortgages.

28 ARE PRESENTED MEDAL OF HONOR

Ceremony by President Held At White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(P)—President Truman bestowed the Congressional Medal of Honor on 28 Army heroes today in the largest mass ceremony of its kind.

Before a large audience of high ranking military and civilians and members of the families of those honored, the president tied the highest award of the nation on each of the officers and men after citations for their individual deeds of heroism were read by Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, acting adjutant general.

An orchestra, from the Army Band played before the ceremony in a lobby outside the historic East Room, reserved for memorable occasions.

Two of the heroes were in wheel chairs. Another was totally blind.

The awards brought to 196 the number of medals of honor given to Army personnel in World War II.

SAVED FOR THIRTY DAYS FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—(P)—A 30-day reprieve has been granted George Pierce, scheduled to die Friday night in the electric chair for the slaying of his son and wife at their home near Reynoldsburg in March, 1944.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche announced the reprieve after he learned Pierce had been gassed in the first World War and had been a veterans hospital patient. The prisoner had asked the governor not to intervene.

WAR HERO AND HIS FAMILY, SNUBBED BY CAPITAL HOTEL, WELCOMED AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(P)—Four members of an Arkansas farm family who couldn't obtain dinner service in one of Washington's costlier hotels were welcomed at the White House today.

They were Staff Sgt. James Hendrix, Jr., 20, his father and mother, and his cousin, Mrs. Andrew Dardo, all of Lepanto, Ark. They were bid to the White House so the sergeant, along with 27 other Army heroes, could receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.

The War Department said last night it had learned the Hendrix party was refused dining room service in the Willard Hotel, although quartered in a suite there as guests of the government. The department offered to provide an escorting officer for the rest of the stay, but the Hendrixes declined.

James Hendrix, Sr., told a reporter the dining room had empty tables and he guessed his group was not served "just because we didn't have on fine enough clothes." He was in his shirt-sleeves, but he said no one mentioned that.

The sergeant, who alone wiped out two Nazi artillery positions and saved three wounded comrades in Germany, was in his uniform.

Hotel officials made no comment.

CHICKEN FEATHERS MADE INTO FABRIC

Takes 30 Broilers To Make Suit for Woman

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(P)—

The feathery part of chicken feathers has been converted into a new textile fabric for dresses, suits and other clothing by the research laboratories of the United States Rubber Company.

The announcement of the new process today says the feather goods looks like wool, but is softer, warmer and lighter in weight. It possesses the brilliant lustre common to bird feathers, and can be dyed any color.

Ten broiler chickens yield one pound of feathered goods. Thirty-eight broilers make one man's suit, and 30 a lady's suit. Around thirty per cent of other fibers, nylon, cotton, rayon or wool, are mixed with the feathers in the process.

JUST VERSA VISA!

Japs on Luzon Thought Atom Bomb Used on Yanks

WITH 38th DIVISION, Northern Luzon, P. I., Aug. 23—(P)—"Have you heard about the atomic bombs being used in the war?" American officers asked Japanese Lt. Col. Shizume Sushimi at a mountain surrender conference.

"Where did we use it against you?" the enemy officer asked eagerly.

"We were the ones who used it," one American told him.

The Japanese colonel seemed dumfounded. Maj. Richard Jeffers, Terre Haute, Ind., related, and told the Americans he understood Japan had such a weapon nearly perfected when he left the homeland.

FORMER SHERIFF DIES

LANCASTER, Aug. 23—(P)—Charles J. Speriky, 78, former sheriff of Fairfield County, died yesterday.

More Wartime Controls Lifted By Government

Federal Agencies in Arguments on Some Procedure But Return Of Many Civilian Services and Commodities Assured; Army Offers 252 War Plants for Sale

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(P)—The Army offered 252 war plants to industry today. Those plants could make plenty of civilian jobs.

By declaring the government-owned plants surplus—no longer needed for tanks, radar, airplane engines and shells—the Army thus provided a $1,500,000,000 contribution toward the government's goal of full employment.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation prepared to go all out in pushing their sale or lease to private manufacturers. The $1,500,000,000 figure is what the plants cost to build—they'll undoubtedly go much cheaper.

For the average man and woman, the reconversion spotlight was on transportation. More controls were coming off.

On November 1, it was ruled, stores, laundries and other businesses may make as many deliveries as their trucks can handle with unlimited gasoline.

And the ODT told railroads they could restore regular seasonal "holiday" trains to seashore, mountains and resorts.

If railroads can spare the cars from military service, they can roll again.

ODT lifted, also, its ban on trains which run less than 35 percent full. Some 50 trains thus may be put back.

However, ODT cautioned that some lines simply may not have the cars to spare for hauling soldiers.

Civilians will be able to buy household appliances months sooner, in most cases, than was expected a month ago.

So disclosing, WPB offered a rough time-table:

Electric ranges by December. Some washing machines by January. Electric fans by Christmas. Refrigerators off rationing by mid-October.

Unofficially, production men predicted also that "mountains" of clothing and textiles would start their return to stores in perhaps two months.

But not everything was rosy on the domestic scene:

Farm leaders and federal officials saw signs of a possible land boom. The rush into agriculture after World War I ruined many veterans and other farm buyers. It pushed prices too high.

OPA said the present skimpy sugar rations will last through (Please Turn to Page Ten)

PERSONNEL OF AAF TO BE CUT TO 700,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(P)—The Army Air Forces, hoping to get along with 700,000 men when peacetime conditions permit, will reduce from the present strength of 2,400,000 to 1,000,000 within 12 months.

Maj. Gen. Fred L. Anderson, disclosing this last night, added the AAF is screening enlisted men with more than 75 discharge points and WACs with more than 43 out of units intended for overseas service, plus enlisted personnel 37 or older.

curate at guessing an invasion date. And D-Day in Japan did not look very near.

We could see the bases being built on Luzon and Okinawa and elsewhere. Hospital sites, staging areas, airfields, infantry camps. A lot was being done in a hurry but the job was only starting. We counted and recounted the number of troops in the Pacific and they didn't add up to enough and some

JAPS GIVING UP NOW ON ISLANDS LONG BY-PASSED

Manchuria and Hong Kong Continue as Sore Spots After Fighting Over

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
(By the Associated Press)

Japan prepared for Allied occupation today by naming an undefeated warlord as war minister, calling an extraordinary session of parliament to meet two days after formal surrender, and displaying a sudden outpouring of mercy.

The Diet was called into emergency two-day session Sept. 2 to drive "home to the nation the stark reality that Japan has been completely defeated" and begin "the Herculean task of rebuilding Japan."

Tokyo's supreme war council was enlarged and reconstituted as a "conference on termination of the war."

Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni gave up the war portfolio to Gen. Sadamu Shimomura, Nipponese supreme commander in North China, currently the most troubled spot in the Pacific. Shimomura's forces presumably were among the 1,000,000 Japanese whose surrender is called for in preliminary negotiations with the Chinese field commander.

Tokyo's sympathy went out to 10,000,000 purported victims of American incendiary, explosive and atom bombs. The government asked permission to send relief expeditions to sick and dying garrisons on by-passed islands. In return it promised aid to 32,000 Allied prisoners in Nippon and said they would be started toward embarkation points Friday.

Atomic Bomb Toll
The broadcast, quoting figures available at air defense headquarters, said the two atom bombs dropped on the homeland killed 90,000 and injured 180,000.

The total killed was set at 260,000; injured, 412,000; rendered homeless, 9,200,000.

A Tokyo broadcast said 2,200,000 houses were completely demolished or burned to the ground, and 90,000 were partially damaged.

Tokyo told 1,200,000 Nipponese in Korea and Formosa to stay where they are and "earnestly work for peace." Japanese also expressed concern about possible civil war in turbulent China, scene of the greatest confusion in surrender plans.

Communists bucking Chiang Kai-Shek in North China were reported on the war path, closing in on key cities. Chungking's arrangements to occupy Indo-China and Hong Kong brought a flat statement from London that Hong Kong "is British territory" and a Paris declaration the French are "definitely taking over" Indo-China. Soviet-occupied Manchuria remained a question mark after Chiang arranged to accept Nipponese surrender there.

Surrender Of Islands
Piecemeal Japanese surrenders at last began to extend to by-passed mid-Pacific island garrisons and die-hard troops in the mountains of the Philippines.

All of this was incident to hurried preparations for Allied occupation of Japan and the signing of surrender documents Aug. 31 on the 45,000 ton battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay, which the Domei news agency said would naturally be accompanied by "feelings of hate and uneasiness."

The Japanese will have another display of American air power Sunday (by Japanese account) or Tuesday (by General MacArthur's report) when the greatest armada of air transports ever assembled begins unloading thousands of U. S. troops in full combat array on Atsugi airdrome, 20 miles from Tokyo.

MacArthur confirmed previously Tokyo reports that he would arrive at the airdrome Tuesday with airborne forces, simultaneous with the landing of Marines and sailors at the Yokosuka naval base at the entrance to Tokyo Bay.

The sea approaches to Tokyo will swarm with the massed naval might of the combined American Third and Fifth fleets and British Pacific fleets. These forces put on a 1,000 plane aerial acrobatics show off the Honshu coast yesterday.

MacArthur indicated mine-sweeping Allied forces also may

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The vast reverence which the Japanese people have for their God-emperor is being demonstrated daily as the Tokyo government proceeds cautiously with the dangerous task of implementing its capitulation to the Allies—dangerous because the militarists are against it, and because the general public is undergoing a terrible shock, having been led to believe that Nippon was winning the war.

Now this reverence has nothing to do with Hirohito's capabilities. It would still be there if he were a moron. It rests in the fact that the people believe they are ruled by a divine being—a living God. They've believed it since 660 B. C. when, according to legend, the first emperor ascended the throne. The Mikado is the last word in the life of the Jap. Actually Hirohito has been more or less of a figurehead—but even the greatest and most progressive of his subjects approach his presence with diffidence.

We see an excellent example of the Mikado's power in the attitude of Field Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, Japanese commander in southeast Asia. Despite Tokyo's capitulation, the count refused to surrender to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten until the emperor himself had given the word. There have been similar cases in other fighting zones.

This is a situation which can't be brushed aside lightly—a fact that the Allied leaders recognize. It's all very well to shout "hang the Mikado"—as more than a few are doing—but it would be a perilous experiment to commit such violence on the primitive ideas of Japan.

Moreover, there are a lot of Allied folk who believe we should be outraging our own ideals if we struck down the head of a religion. One of the reasons which impelled our American forefathers to come here from Europe was to secure freedom of worship. The second of the late President Roosevelt's four freedoms is "freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world."

Sure, I know that opens up the question of worshipping false gods—but let's not go into that here. If the people of Japan want to continue the Shinto religion we can't stop them by force. We can't stop them by removing their emperor, because Shinto is bigger than he is.

The late Turkish dictatorship, the great Kemal Ataturk, abolished the caliphate in 1924 and kicked the Caliph out. But that didn't halt Mohammedanism. Ataturk even abolished the fez, which was essential to the Mohammedan in worship because it had no brim and he could prostrate himself till his forehead touched the ground. Ataturk introduced western hats with brims, but the faithful found a way to beat that. I saw them in Ankara Mosque wearing American caps, with the visors turned around back, the way American baseball catchers wear them.

Then there's another point: If we use the big stick to uproot Shinto, on the ground that it's an improper religion, we are taking in a lot of territory. After that do we deal with the Confucianism of China, with Buddhism, with Hinduism and what not?

The best answer to all this probably is that if western ideas and ideals are presented to the Japanese people in the most favorable light, we may win them over to our way of thinking. We must remember that, after all, they are largely a primitive people who literally are generations behind our times. And it's a little over three hundred years ago that some of us were burning witches at the stake.

PFC. HUGH GIDDING IS EN ROUTE HOME

Veteran of One Year's Duty in France, Germany

Homeward bound with the 1376th Engineer Petroleum Distribution Company is Pfc. Hugh B. Gidding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Gidding, 334 East Market Street, who has served more than a year overseas. This company supplied tanks and planes of the American armies in Europe with 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline daily.

The 1376th arrived overseas in July, 1944, and shortly afterwards went to France for pipeline construction along the famous supply route, the Red Ball highway. The pipeline had to be constantly patrolled to repair leaks and prevent black-market sabotage.

This company has received many commendations, among them letters of praise from headquarters, communications zone, and the chief engineer of the European theater. It also has a battle participation star for the northern France campaign.

The company is at Camp Atlanta, near Chalons, France, awaiting redeployment to the United States.

The Problem Before Us

The first hysteria of jubilation—natural, inevitable and spontaneous sequence to Japanese surrender—has begun to subside.

And returning once more to the foremost position in the consciousness of the American and Allied peoples is their solemn realization, which was crowded into the background momentarily, of the responsibilities and problems imposed by the restoration of peace.

The collapse of Japan placed the final official stamp of triumph upon the most difficult and dangerous problem of war ever to be faced by free peoples of the earth. The issue long was in doubt. For months and years it took highest courage even to hope that human liberty could survive the threat to its existence. But it has survived after the greatest victory in the greatest war recorded in history.

Democratic peoples now have crossed the threshold of another era. And they are confronted with problems and difficulties of peace no less in magnitude than the problems of war which have just been mastered. Most thinking people are filled with the realization that to gain victory in peace likely will be fully as difficult—and may prove more difficult—than victory in war.

To attempt to enumerate any considerable number of those problems would be an impossible undertaking. But everyone must agree upon the one problem which overshadows all others completely—which, in very large degree, encompasses all the others. That problem finds expression in the determination reiterated times without number that horrors like those visited upon mankind during the past six years must never be allowed to happen again. If they are allowed to happen, then the very best that can be said will be that sacrifices made during World War II will have been made in vain. Victory in war will be worse than nullified if free men fail to see to it that they win the peace.

No one can set the pattern which will insure the winning of the peace. No one can know just how it will be done. But common sense must tell us that, just as victory in war required its sacrifices, victory in peace will exact its sacrifices, too. We don't pretend to know what these may be. But logic should tell everyone that he will have to give, perhaps a great deal, in return for the blessings he expects to receive for himself and his posterity.

There still is a job—an enormous job—for individuals as well as for nations. No one knows as yet the specific nature of the job ahead. But there is bright hope in the belief that, if individuals as a whole accept their part of that job with the same enthusiasm and determination they accepted their duties in war, then free mankind will gain a greater victory in peace than was done in war.

representatives of the breed in process of surrender. An ordinary American official, meeting representatives of the enemy officially for that purpose, would probably have met them half way, at least. The general remained upstairs, while the Jap envoys apparently got wet in the rain and checked their samurai swords at the door, and he didn't receive them. Even when his subordinates did so it was "with severely correct military courtesy and without a vestige of friendliness."

It was good to learn about that. Japs, like Nazi Germans, have to be put and kept in their place, without any false and sloppy professions of friendship. Americans are by nature friendly and inclined to make up even with bitter enemies. It is an admirable trait, but often carried too far.

Future Business

Forecasts are made of some business decline, perhaps running from six to nine months, after which a reasonable recovery is expected, running on smoothly for some time thereafter. And the experts probably know what they are talking about. But it would be easy to over-estimate the decline in this case, or its duration. And rash guessing about such a matter may affect business about as much as any natural cause.

One of the general economic facts that everybody knows, when he stops to think about it, is that there are big back-logs of business held up by the war, and they should break loose with a roar when they once get a fair chance. There is hardly any limit to the things people in this country want, and will try to get when they can. Most of them are old, familiar things. But there are also plenty of new things, now known and wanted, that could soon be available if people were more confident.

A wholesome war-time tendency is to write fewer words and put more brains into 'em.

The Commonsense Viewpoint About a Common Complaint

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

HABITUAL constipation or sluggish action of the intestines is a disorder of the colon or large bowel. Many people are constipated but few really suffer any pain or other symptoms from the condition, and those who do, suffer more in mind than in body.

According to Doctor T. L. Hardy of England, constipation, in practically all cases, is the result of faulty training. Individuals vary a great deal in the number of bowel movements they have each day. A survey was made of people between the ages of 14 and 62 years, and it was found that about one-half had a bowel action once a day, two-fifths more than once a day, and the remainder less often than once a day; yet, all of these people were normal in every way. In other words, being constipated does not depend on the frequency of the bowel action, but upon regularity and the absence of discomfort or undue effort.

Various Changes

Many things, such as change of occupation, change of climate, simple glandular disturbances, and emotional upsets, may disturb regularity of habit. It has been stated that perhaps one of the most common causes of constipation is the suppression of the desire at various times during the day.

In treating constipation it is important that there be no feeling of anxiety because bowel action does not occur. Another factor which contributes to the development and maintenance of constipation is the wrong use of laxatives. In the survey referred to above it was found that about one-fourth of those studied took laxatives twice a week or more often.

Some people take laxatives because they are afraid they may occasionally miss an action of the bowels. Then, there are others who begin the habit to get rid of a symptom, which they think is due to constipation, such as headache, tiredness or excessive gas in the intestines. There are still others who start the habit because they are influenced by advertising or in other ways.

Nervous Disorders

There is a certain type of constipation which is due to nervous disorders. This is called spastic constipation. The individual with this condition should endeavor to overcome the excessive nervousness. Strain, both emotional and physical, should be avoided, and the patient should be taught to have no anxiety concerning the matter of bowel action.

Diet is helpful in the treatment of all kinds of constipation. In the type due to nervousness, a bland diet should be used, that is, one which is free from highly-seasoned and bulky foods.

Severe constipation is a disorder which should be treated under the direction of a physician. He will decide what type of constipation is present and outline the treatment which will correct it most quickly.

CHAPTER THIRTY

After a doctor had dressed Bill's shoulder wound, Osborne, his chief from the Counter Intelligence Corps, explained the raid: Chief of Police MacCandless had called them last night. A net of Home Guard boys, detectives and police, had encircled the Wolfe house from dark on, waiting for the CIC and the FBI men to arrive, before making arrests.

Then the nets got around somehow. The citizens rose up in wrath, grabbed guns and carving knives—anything, vowed to clean up the Nazi cesspool, and started on the march. They were still coming! Look out the window.

Bill did, and saw a throng of hundreds, perhaps a thousand, men and boys milling about, carrying clubs and guns; he even saw some women with rifles. A good sign, perhaps, for it showed that Americans were aroused from their complacency, and realized that the war was total—and right here at home.

Bill soon learned that the FBI had nabbed Basil Jones last night in New York as he was stepping into a taxi. Rab Pixley was missing from the Country Club; he had left in a hurry over a week ago, hadn't taken his clothes or even his toothbrush. Carlotta, the servants, Herr Friedrich and nine students, were all housed in the local jail. The officers had a hard time getting them safely through the mob!

"The Lawrence girl?" Bill asked hoarsely.

Osborne made an "err-ing" sound of dismay. "You know about her?"

"Still missing?"

"We had a letter from her Tuesday, saying she had been followed lately. Looks bad, doesn't it?"

Bill remembered that Carlotta had remarked, "They will hunt and hunt, and find nothing." He said in a hollow tone, "Dead—look for her grave."

Then Bill rapidly divulged the ramifications of the plot to seize the bombers, load them at the local field, and send them on their flaming routes. The secret service men listened grimly. The arrests had been made none too soon. The bombs were in hiding nearby? Probably cached near the airport. They would make a thorough search.

Bill told of the killing of Mrs. Lawrence... of the coming of two men after dark on Monday who had "marched for three nights"... and ended with the story of his own loss of self-control that very morning when he had accused Carlotta of Eleanor Lawrence's murder. (That had led to the scrimmage and his wound.)

The wall safe would have to be unlocked by an expert; but Carlotta's desk was pried open, the contents hastily gone through, then packaged. The agents started searching the thirty rooms of the big house, a formidable undertaking.

Bill saw that it was only 7:30 a. m. He asked to go outside. When he appeared, leaning on an officer's arm, he was greeted with shouts and cheers. But these brought little elation.

tion. Eleanor—what had happened to her?

He asked to see some of the leaders of the search for Miss Lawrence. A young man came up and said, "I'm Theron Bartley, her brother-in-law," and Bill answered with a twisted smile, "Yes? Well, I happen to be closer than that. My name is Steuben."

Major Tyrell put in, "I'm helping direct the search. Have you any suggestions?"

"Have they dragged the beaver pond?"

The Major's face grew somber. "No. Not yet. We've sent a posse over the ridge. She might be lost, you know."

Bill nodded. "Try Marble Ledge. She could have fallen—or been pushed—over the cliff."

The firemen dragged the pond, but it yielded nothing. The cellar of the big house, the floors and every cranny of the baths and outbuildings were searched. All in vain.

Tom Deming, one of the militia guerrillas, said to Bill, wistfully, "I know her. She was pretty as a magazine cover girl."

His use of the past tense made Bill's wound throb with sudden violence.

By one o'clock, Bill Steuben collapsed and, still fighting the idea of a hospital, was motored by Theron Bartley to the Lawrence home. Lying on a couch, he fell asleep.

It was Sukey who gave him the clue. She had been sitting beside him when he wakened several hours later.

"Four o'clock!" he exclaimed. "She isn't found?"

"No-o-o," faltered Sukey. "I—I wonder if they've searched the cave."

He made a queer sound, lifted himself on his good arm. "Cave? What cave?"

"Oh, that spooky one in the ravine. Eben says there are ghosts there, ghosts of Tories, but Gran said he was only fooling."

"Do any of the others know about this cave?"

"Doris does. Dad took me to the entrance once."

Bill threw off the covering, staggered to his feet. "Then you can show me where it is! Come, Sukey—hurry!"

Only a few in the county, enthusiasts like "Spellunk" Adams, knew the exact location of Tories' Cave. "Spellunk", who would have been of much help in the search, had taken the train to Buffalo early that morning, and knew nothing of Eleanor's disappearance.

The state trooper driving Bill and Sukey remarked, "Someone asked if there wasn't a cave around here, but no one seemed to have heard of it. Sure of it, young-one?"

"Sure," said Sukey.

They had been followed by a great fan-tail of hurrying men. Sukey led the way down the rocky passage, the others crowding close. She pointed. "Right over there!"

Then, "Look, it's fallen in! It used to be right where those stones are!"

An air raid warden leaned down.

"Those rocks have been put here lately, damp soil on this one."

They began tugging at the boulders, tearing them away. John Sabriski played his flashlight inside the entrance. "Piled with boxes!" he snorted. Followed by Bill and Sukey, he went through the aperture to the first chamber.

Sabriski spoke between clenched teeth. "The stuff, all right! Enough TNT to make New York look like Rotterdam! Don't touch it! I'll call the Chief, let him decide."

Sukey cried plaintively, "But Eleanor isn't here!"

Then from the depths, a quivering voice called feebly: "Su—ukey—Su—ukey—I am here!"

"El—oh, it's El!" the child screamed, and Bill Steuben called hoarsely, "Darling, are you hurt?"

A gasp. "Bill—Bill?" A silence. Then something between a sob and chuckle. "Lo, sweetheart—I'm all right—Quick—get me out!"

A policeman went to the entrance of the ravine and fired his revolver three times in the air, the signal that Eleanor had been found.

Eleanor and Bill would not go to the hospital; they would recover more quickly surrounded by the family, they said. The doctor insisted on installing a nurse, for Eleanor was suffering from a cold and exhaustion. Bill should have been in bed since morning.

He lay in Sukey's room, listening to the murmurous sounds of the household, the family downstairs at a late dinner, savoring the sweetness with dreamlike wonder. . . . Spent with danger and effort, but now safe. Relieved from that hideous burden of falsity. His love—alive—lay in the next room. Together, he and Eleanor had helped sever one wicked arm of the Axis octopus. Now they could rest—for a space.

The nurse opened the connecting door. She had pushed Eleanor's bed into position so they could look across at each other. "You can talk for five minutes while I go downstairs," she said.

"Hello, there," Bill said, and Eleanor blew him a kiss.

They did not speak of the past thorny weeks, nor speculate on the fate of Carlotta and her agents; they were content to exist in the rainbow glow of the present, their soaring happiness.

She asked softly, "Is it true? I, here; you there?"

He had been trying to realize that miracle himself. "Yes, it's true."

She said, "We'll want a white house, Bill—one we could build on to."

"With green shutters,"

"Yes, green shutters. . . . And I would like four children."

Bill grinned. "Um-hummm, two boys and two girls!"

The nurse came in. "That's enough for tonight. There's tomorrow and the next day."

Tomorrow and tomorrow, thought Eleanor wistfully and happily as a feathery languor stole over her.

THE END.

EXPANSION PLANNED FOR O. S. &amp; S. O. HOME

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—(AP)—

Action preliminary to a $1,000,000 expansion program at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphan Home at Xenia was reported today by Herbert R. Mooney, trustee of the Home and former state welfare director.

Mooney said he and William S. Konold, another trustee and former state commander of the American Legion, had been designated by the institution's board to recommend an architect for the project, under an appropriation granted by the last legislature.

Mooney said half the money would be spent for cottages to double accommodations now occupied by 421 children of World War I and Spanish-American War veterans. The new officers would permit entrance of children of World War II who died in service.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

(Tired of Six Articles)

WASHINGTON — Mushroom towns are nothing new to the United States, but the little "Secret Industrial Empires" that the atomic bomb-makers created on the desert near Pasco, Wash., and in the hills near Clinton, Tenn., have a history all their own.

It is true that for months after the first ground was broken, residential areas centered in Oak Ridge, near Clinton, and Richland Village, near Pasco, still were the subjects of worker complaints. Typical was the worker at Pasco who could get no rest because of 24-hour-a-day gambling, drinking, arguing and brawling. He also complained of the sandstorms and the food and finally quit to work in the peace and quiet of a railroad yard.

Yet three months after this John K. Jennings, Indiana WMC director, making a thorough survey of working conditions at the Hanford (Pasco) project, said: "Everything humanly possible is done for the comfort of employees. Proper housing, schools, libraries, churches, recreation and public safety are provided as well as full banking and railroad and other transportation facilities.

"At the hotel (in Richland Village), I was given an air conditioned room at $1 a day which could not be obtained for less than $4 in any hotel in America. The hotel was neat, clean, well-managed. The bed was excellent. There was a shower bath."

"From this time on, I had an escort over the entire project. I was asked to and did sign a number of forms swearing me to secrecy... but I can truthfully say... I made no observations that I considered of military value to any one—including Hitler. It's my impression that this would apply also to most of the workmen."

He remarked on the house-keeping and maid service provided in the dormitories and cottages; the $1 meals for 65 cents (10 per cent less for 21-meal cards); the 50,000 sandwiches turned out daily for lunches and kept in refrigerators until eating time; the hospitals, which would do justice to cities of 100,000; the 24-hour-a-day movies; the dances with name bands on week ends; the recreation halls; and the fact that the bars were open only from 7 P. M. to midnight.

Jennings pointed out that all construction is of a permanent nature—"is evidently built on the theory that it is to serve always and no doubt will be there when Gabriel blows his horn."

Mr. Jennings complained that too many WMC staff members had a wrong, preconceived idea that the Hanford project was a "glorified lumber camp" instead of an established community with most of the facilities of a city of 50,000 and up.

The Hanford project also had what Jennings described as "the largest trailer camp in America," a city in itself of 10,000 trailers, with streets, yards, and its own utilities and garbage collection.

What may be said for the Pasco-Richland-Hanford area could be said for the 75,000-population Oak Ridge-Clinton community between Norris Dam and Knoxville in Tennessee.

Dinner Fetes Bride-Elect Wednesday Eve

Mrs. Howard M. Dellinger and Mrs. C. L. Lewellen combined hospitalities at the Lewellen home on East Street, Wednesday evening, when they entertained with a dinner in honor of Miss Marjorie Scott, whose marriage to Thomas J. Flynn will be performed on Sunday, August twenty-sixth.

Covers for eight guests were laid at the dining table which was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a crystal water-garden of yellow snapdragons and greenery. White tapers in crystal holders burned softly throughout the pleasant dinner hour which was one of prolonged enjoyment for the group. A complete crystal dinner service was used by the two hostesses to serve a tempting and appetizingly prepared three course meal.

At the close of the dinner hour they adjourned to the spacious living room where an evening of hearts for entertainment followed. Seen at various points of vantage in the handsomely appointed room were bowls and vases of delicately colored summer flowers. Prize winners at the close of the evening were Miss Wilma Jayne Garringer and Miss Helen Minshall. Each winner, in turn, presented their prizes to Miss Scott.

A surprise feature of the evening's many pleasures was the presentation of a fine assortment of miscellaneous shower gifts to Miss Scott.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

80 TEACHERS NAMED FOR COUNTY SCHOOL SYSTEM

2,200 STUDENTS TO GO BACK TO CLASSES SEPT. 5

Few Changes Made in Staff This Year - Lunches To Start in About Month

Only a few last minute minor details today remained to be disposed of before the opening Sept. 5 of the 15 elementary and high schools of the county system. W. J. Hilty, the county school superintendent said, as he laid out a comprehensive outline of facts and figures and plans for the coming months.

The teaching staff, the superintendent said, is now complete with the exception of that at Bloomingburg where several residents of the immediate community are expected to be available within the next few days and before classes go into session.

The enrollment for the fall term is expected to top 2,200 slightly, with approximately 2,000 of the pupils going to and from school in busses.

Of the total of 161 individuals to keep the county schools going, 80 will be teachers. Of these 57 are married, 11 are men, mostly superintendents, principals and coaches, and 12 unmarried women.

Forty-three drivers will man the busses that provide the transportation and 16 will be janitors, two of whom are women.

All but one of the schools are planning to serve meals just as they have in recent years. The exception is at New Martinsburg. The first meals probably will not be served until a month after school starts because the contract blanks for participation in the federal school lunch reimbursement program have not yet been received. Most of the schools were late getting started last fall. Pupils and teachers alike bring their lunches with them until the lunch program gets under way. The change for the meals varies from 10 cents to 15 cents per meal.

Some of the food in the past has been provided by school organizations which stored canned goods during the summer and the rest was purchased at convenient retail markets with reimbursement by the federal government under the now awaited contracts.

The teaching corps, the bus drivers, janitors and 13 of the 22 cooks required are now under contract. Nine more cooks—one each at Conner, Bookwalter and Yatesville and two each at Chaffin, Eber and Wilson—are yet to be selected.

All told it will take approximately $250,000 to meet all the county school expenses this year. This includes the salaries for the teachers, bus drivers, janitors and cooks, the heating and upkeep of the buildings, bond retirement and all incidentals.

There have not been many changes in the teacher personnel, Supt. Hilty said as he paid compliments to the entire staff. All the elementary school principals will return to the schools and there will be but one new superintendent. G. H. Biddle will return to Bloomingburg, Carl M. Boring to Jeffersonville and Kenneth Craig to Good Hope, Milford Barker, the new superintendent, at Madison Mills, will take the place of Mervin Britton, who is to teach at New Carlisle in Clark County. Barker, however, is not a stranger to Fayette County school circles. He was principal at Olive, Conner and Bookwalter before he went to Wilmington College to get his degree in education and then take a position on the college staff as work-experience coordinator during the past three years.

Mrs. Helen Huff is to supervise the music in all the elementary schools and Mrs. Mary Jean Schwaigert will return to Jeffersonville and Mrs. Ellen Pensyl to Bloomingburg to head the music departments. Miss Ellen Buchanan, new in the county system this year but with eight years of experience, will divide her time as music instructor between Madison Mills and Good Hope.

The following is the complete list of teachers and other school employees as it now stands at the county superintendent's office:

GARRISON QUILTS SCOUTS HERE TO TAKE NEW POST

He Is To Be Commandant Of Boys Military School At Montgomery, Ala.

X L. Garrison, Boy Scout field executive serving Fayette, Madison and Highland counties, today announced his resignation from the organization, effective September 1 to become commandant of Stark University, Montgomery, Ala., a military academy for boys of high school age through junior college. He has been with the Boy Scouts since June 10, 1944.

Garrison, who holds an A. B. in education from the University of Kentucky and had graduate work at Columbia University in New York City, plans to leave for the school after the first of the month. School convenes September 4. He came here after serving in the army as a major during the early days of the war.

Another qualification which has made the acceptance of the position possible is Garrison's military background. In May, 1944, he retired from the U. S. Army with a commission of major which he has retained on an inactive status. At any time when his physical examinations can be met, Garrison can be mustered back into service.

His academy duties as commandant will include all educational, disciplinary measures and military procedure. They will not include any administration details which are taken care of by a business manager, he said.

Garrison's wife and two children will join him later in Alabama.

Walter Rettig, treasurer of the Boy Scout committee for Fayette County, said he knew of no appointment being made to this position from the state headquarters who will take care of this. It is expected a Columbus man will take over the position. Robert Terhune, chairman of the county committee, was not immediately available to say what the future would be.

ONE-THIRD OF OHIO IN DIRE NEED OF RAIN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23 —(P)—One-third of Ohio definitely is in need of rain, the Weather Bureau reports.

A Bureau report showed the past week's weather was favorable for most field work. The report said average rainfall the past week was 0.72 inch and the most extensive dry areas were in the south.

Canada is the greatest producer of asbestos in the world.

Don't Neglect Slipping FALSE TEETH

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, sticky taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

 FEED THE JUKE SON—WHILE THE CHICK AND I MOW THE MOHAIR!
 YES—MASTER!
 THIS HAS GONE FAR ENOUGH! SLAP HIM DOWN! WHAT'S THE LITTLE CREEP GOT ON YOU ANYWAY?
 AW—BUT GEE DREAMBOAT! YOU WONT SPEAK TO ME IF I TELL YA!
 THAT PUTS YOU IN A SPOT!—BECAUSE I WONT SPEAK TO YOU UNTIL YOU DO TELL!

DONALD DUCK
 YEP! A LITTLE GIFT FOR YOU... GUESS WHAT IT IS!
 IS IT ROUND?
 YEP! DO YOU WEAR IT ON YOUR FINGER?
 YEP!
 OH, YOU SWEET THING IT MUST BE A RING!
 SHAK!
 DONALD DUCK

BRICK BRADFORD
 YES, GENTLEMEN, I HEARD YOU PLOT TO STEAL THE HELIUM AND TAKE IT TO EARTH!
 THIS, IN MY MOST HUMBLE OPINION, MR. PRESTON WOULD DECIDEDLY NOT APPROVE!
 A WORD FROM ME, MY HONORABLE FRIENDS, WOULD FIND YOURSELVES IN GREAT DIFFICULTIES, YES?
 THEN PRESTON SHALL NOT HEAR OF IT—THAT I MAKE SURE!

POPEYE
 HOW D'YA KILL A GIANT, WIMPY? I NEVER KILLED ONE B'FORE
 MY ORIGINAL PLAN WAS TO SURROUND HIM, SIR—I'VE DISCARDED IT
 POPEYE, I'M GOING TO SNEEZE
 HMR SOME-ONE ONCE SLEW A GIANT WITH A SLING I BELIEVE IT WAS GOLIATH, SIR
 YES, BUT WE AINT GOT ONE
